LESSON NO. 2

KISWAHILI Somo "La Tatu"

BY MWALIMU BAHATI NJEMA

Swahili is technically known as Kiswahili by the people who speak it. It is the tongue spoken — with variations, — by millions of people in Africa. And it is now the official language of the United Republic of Tanzania. We are going to show you how to use certain courteous expressions you need every day.

Here is a simplified key to help you understand the vowels in the words: e is somewhere between the e of better and the ay of day; u is like the oo in moon; i is like the ee in meet; a is like the a in father; and o is like the aw in saw.

As you need them, we will explain the consonants. However, dh is a combination which is like the th in them. Q and x are not used in Swahili Now for stress: in general, the next to the last syllable of a Swahili word or phrase receives a stress, which consists of a slight increase in loudness usually with some increase also in length. Fortunately for you, Swahili is not a tonal language. Chinese is such a language and the change in pitch does change the meaning of some of the Chinese words. For example, the word for "sell" in Chinese is pronounced the same way as the word for "buy" — but the tone is different.

Now for our expressions. You will use Please, Thank You, You are welcome, I am sorry, I don't know, and others a lot while you are learning this language.

Please — Tafadhali Thanks — Asante Thank you very much — Asante sana You are welcome; I doesn't matter; can be said this way si Kitu

In the expression "Si Kitu" — the word kitu itself means a thing or matter Si is a negative expression. So you are really saying it isn't a thing or it isn't a matter. However in a discussion when you want to say "It doesn't matter" or "Never Mind" you use this expression: Haidhuru. The word "dhuru" means hurt or damage. Hai — is a negative expression. So you are saying no hurt, no damage — it doesn't really matter.

When people speak to you at the beginning in Swahili you may have trouble understanding them. The following will help you.

Ninakufahamu — I understand you
Sikufahamu — I do not understand you
Sema sana — Speak Loudly.
Sema mara ya pili — Say it a second time
Unaongea kwa wepesi sana — You speak too fast. Or Sema tena — say it again.
Waweza kusema Kiingereza? — Do you speak English?
Waweza kusema Kiswahili? — Do you speak Swahili?

You can always put yourself on the defense by pointing out that you do not speak Swahili very well. This will then cause the other person normally to speak slowly and not to use difficult expressions. Sijui Kusema Kiswahili vizuri — I don't speak Swahili well.

If you can't sort of get what he is saying, then you can say one of two things· Sema vema — speak clearly. Or if stuck. Waweza kunipatia mkalimani? — Can you get an interpreter?

There are certain other words and expressions that come in handy in any language. Here are some more you should know in Swahili:

Yes — Ndyio No — La Maybe — Labda
I am sorry — Kunrathi Sijui — I don't know.
Hasha — Certainly No

Note: Kunrathi is a common phrase of polite apology And you are always going to be polite. So it covers "pardon me"; "excuse me;" "by your leave", or "no offence meant" If you want to make it stronger you can say Kunrathi sana. The word sana is an intensifier. It makes what it modifies stronger. Often you can just translate sana by "very". So that kunrathi sana would mean "I humbly beg your pardon." Hasha has a lot of force to it. And in addition to meaning "certainly no", it also means "God forbid" and "By no means." There is another expression which means, "I am sorry" and that is Nasikitika

Memorize these three expressions: 'I am tired." — Nimechoka. "Please hurry" — Fanya haraka, tafadhali. and "Have you finished" — Umemaliza?

About verbs: If you have read this carefully, you will notice there are two ways to say speak. -sema and -ongea. The dash means it is an infinitive. Actually "ku" should be in front of each. So we really have kusema and Kuongea. You can say the "Ku" as used here means "to." Thus the verb is 'to speak."

Tear this sheet out and save it. Tell your friends there will be more lessons about this wonderful language. Be the first in your group to speak it. Each lesson will be independent so you can go ahead even if you missed a lesson
